HORSE FELL INTO A TREE

Awaiting Aid, the Animal Tightly Clutched the Trunk With His Rear Hoofs.

Visitors to Ferry Bar were much surprised the other morning to see a horse up among the branches of a tree. The animal had gotten in its uncomfortable position by falling ten feet from a bank that overtopped the tree. The tree probably saved the horse's life.

The accident occurred while the horse was grazing in a pasture in the rear of the Baltimore Motor club at Ferry Bar. John McMahon, 877 West Fayette street, was at work on a motor boat when he was startled by a convulsive rustling in the tree nearby. Looking up he was startled to see four hoofs jutting through the leaves and swinging madly back and forth. A moment later the hoofs became still and the horse wrapped the rear ones around the tree, clutching desperately to prevent a further fall.

A call was sent to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and an ambulance was hurried to the scene. Blocks and tackle were fastened to a tree stump on top of the hill and leather belts were wrapped about the horse. When the work of hitching the belts was completed it was found that the animal could not be rescued until several of the limbs of the tree were cut off. This took considerable time, during which the horse rested and watched the work of the score or more of men who were trying to release him. With the removal of the last limb the horse was slowly drawn to the top of the bank from which he had fallen. A close examination revealed that outside of a few scratches he was uninjured.—Baltimore American.

CUPID EXCEEDS SPEED LIMIT

New Jersey Couple Meet, Woo and Wed All Inside of Thirteen Hours.

Cupid exceeded the speed limit for quick marriages when Pisceal Balais of Clark street and Miss Rosa Razca of Cass street boarded the train at Trenton, N. J., as perfect strangers, and within 13 hours had ridden to matrimony and happiness.

The young couple had never seen each other until they were introduced at the home of a friend. The youth, captivated, was soon riding on air, and began his suit immediately. At ten he popped the question aggressively, and the maid surrendered, not laying down her arms, exactly, but making better use of them.

At 10:30 Miss Razca had bought her trousseau and Balais his wedding suit, both purchases being made in a store where the girl was a saleswoman.

When the city hall opened the couple were waiting to get the license, answered the required questions in a few short moments that seemed all too long. Then they looked up a clergyman and were married half an hour afterward.

The Hungry Bullfrog.

"Did you ever know that the bullfrog was carnivorous, or, in other words, a cannibal?" said Nick Gilbert, one of the operators at the electrical bureau. "I never did until several years ago, when it was demonstrated almost before my very eyes. I have been interested in fish culture for years and have made a study of their habits. So that I could study them at closer range, I built a big aquarium in my yard, one that held 650 gallons, and along with a fine collection of fish I stocked it with seven fine big bullfrogs.

"The sparrows used to drink water from the edge of the aquarium and this day, while my wife was looking on, one of the frogs leaped up, caught the sparrow and took it beneath the water. I could hardly believe that a frog would attack and vanquish such a fighter as the English sparrow is known to be, so in the interest of science I emptied the aquarium, and sure enough, down in the bottom was the sparrow. The frog had taken him down below, but either could not swallow him or else did not have the time. Following that I began to miss some valuable Japanese fantails, and, after removing all the frogs but one, waited until I missed another fish, when I killed Mr. Frog and found that he was the robber. Before that I believed the fish had been stolen by cats. The bullfrog is aggressive and can take his own part any time."

New York Scenery.

I heard someone descanting about her view, says Jane Stone in New York Press. She said one thing she'd always hated in New York was not having a view, and now she had one. She took me up to see it. "Well, where is it?" said I, looking out of the window. "Why, there and there and there!" said she. "Don't you see how I see over that roof to the next one, and down in the street to the mail box and overhead to that bit of sky?" I said, oh, yes, and how nice it was that she had it. It's really pathetic what New York can do to us. It's pathetic when somebody thinks that what she showed me was a view. A view.

Growth of the Game.

"Baseball is adopting many innovations." "What now?" "In addition to nine men playing ball it is now considered necessary to have a couple of comedians in uniform on the side lines." "What for?" "To distract the attention of opposing players." "Um. If that's the trend, we'll soon have a female pitcher."

ALL IN THE DARK.

"Mr. Best Seller, I represent a delegation of reporters now camped on your lawn."

"What can I do for you boys?" "We understand that you are under contract to bring out a new novel by the first of September."

"That is true." "In fact, the press notices are in print and orders are now being taken."

"Quite right." "Now, we reporters are anxious to know what your new book is to be about."

The great author sighed. "You'll have to wait a while," said he. "I don't know myself."

Calling Pa.

"Ma put over a good one on pa, all right, all right."

"What was it?" "He was putting up a shelf in the pantry and accidentally hit his thumb with the hammer. While he was dancing around, saying a lot of awful things, ma rushed into the kitchen and said: 'John, stop that language right away. Just remember you're not at a baseball park now.'"

JUST LIKE A MAN.

Mrs. B.—My husband isn't a success when it comes to shopping.

Mrs. W.—Isn't he?

Mrs. B.—No. He can't get 98 cents' worth of anything for less than a dollar.

Stayed in Town.

The seaside damsel fumed and raged at dearth of men. The city damsel got engaged to nine or ten.

The Gift Horse.

Hostess (after presenting fan to prize winner at whist drive)—Really, I'm afraid it's hardly worth accepting.

Winner (appraising its worth)—Oh, thank you so much for it; it's just the kind of fan I wanted—one that I shouldn't mind losing.—Punch.

Her Charity.

"She is very liberal in her charities," said one woman.

"Yes," answered the other; "liberal, but not always practical. For instance, she wanted to send alarm clocks to Africa to aid sufferers from the sleeping sickness."—McCall's Magazine.

A Sure Sign.

"So he took you out auto riding the other evening?"

"Yes, what of it?"

"Do you think he is in love with you?"

"I think so. I know that every time I spoke to him the auto tried to climb a tree or jump a fence."

Good for Business.

"Every man in your office is in love with the stenographer."

"What of it?"

"I wouldn't have that sort of thing going on."

"Why should I object? Not a man has lost a day this year. Not even baseball attracts them."

SAFEST WAY.

Higgs—I never want to see him again.

Diggs—That's easy done. Lend him a five spot.

This Often Happens.

There was a man in our town who thought himself a prince; Alas, the neighbors with a frown, Declared he was a quince.

A Good Reason.

"Yes, he married her because her first husband left her."

"That's hardly a good reason for marrying a woman."

"It was in this case. He left her $400,000."

My Doctor Said

"Try Cardui," writes Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I was in a very low state of health, and was not able to be up and tend to my duties. I did try Cardui, and soon began to feel better. I got able to be up and help do my housework. I continued to take the medicine, and now I am able to do my housework and to care for my children, and I feel as though I could never praise Cardui enough for the benefits I have received."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Cardui is successful, because it is made especially for women, and acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Cardui does one thing, and does it well. That explains the great success which it has had, during the past 50 years, in helping thousands of weak and ailing women back to health and happiness.

If you are a woman, feel tired, dull, and are nervous, cross and irritable, it's because you need a tonic. Why not try Cardui? Cardui builds, strengthens, restores, and acts in every way as a special, tonic remedy for women. Test it for yourself. Your druggist sells Cardui. Ask him.
